Course Objectives and Format:

This lecture course is designed to provide students with an introduction to research on social influence. Particular attention will be given to reviewing theory and empirical research on conformity, compliance, and obedience. The first biological warfare contexts).

Exams:

There will be two exams. These exams will be a mixture of multiple choice, short answer, and essay questions. The midterm exam will include material covered in approximately the first half of the term. The final exam will primarily concentrate on material covered in the second half of the term. However, the final exam will include some questions that will require integration of material across the entire term. The emphasis of exam questions will be on material covered in lecture, but some questions will be drawn exclusively from the text or in-class videos. The midterm and final exams will be weighted such that your best exam mark will be 60% of the total course mark and your lowest exam mark will be 40% of the total course mark. It is expected that students will write both exams. If there is a valid medical reason or other important life circumstance that requires a student to miss the midterm exam, the general policy will be to prorata that exam to the final exam (if supporting documentation of the problem is provided). However, in very special circumstances (e.g., non-attendance as part of an officially sponsored Queen's activity), an alternative exam date will be arranged.
