Workload

Reflection papers are designed to assess your understanding and critical thinking with respect to the material presented in each research topic's readings. At the end of each of 3 lectures (Sept. 17, Oct. 15, Nov. 5), one or two discussion questions will be presented that center around core theories, methodologies, or results.

In a short paper, discuss each of these questions, critically evaluating the perspectives that can be taken on the issues. The papers will be marked with an overall mark (out of 10). Responses should be no longer than one page single-spaced.

Reflection papers are typically due prior to the second class of each research unit.

Reflection paper #1: due Sept. 20

Reflection paper #2: due Oct. 18

Reflection paper #3: due Nov. 8

For each research unit, we will conduct an experiment.

All data files will be collected, and you will analyze the data.

For each research unit, you will complete and submit a research report (method, results, and discussion). Reports will be due at 11:55pm the day followingy followiesults,
