Course Description

Emotions organize our behaviour and are central to our social interactions. Much of child development is directed by this reciprocal relationship between emotional and social processes. For example, infants are born equipped to express emotions that influence caregiver behaviour, while at the same time caregivers tra onQ: There is a onQ site for this course. All students must log in the first week of class to verify that they have been added. This site will be used to distribute lecture notes, supplementary materials, communicate through the discussion board and to report grades.

Course Format

This is a lecture course with a text. Material on the exams will come from both the text and lectures, but the proportion will vary slightly across the 4 exams. Exam 1 will be the heaviest in terms of readings, so approximately 60% of exam will come from text. Exams 2 and 3 will have
