

Somewhere in the world right now
The moon slides through a window
Through starry skies the night wind sighs
The leaves scatter their shadows

In cozy sheets a young girl sleeps
Dreaming of tomorrow
Just out of reach on

Somewhere in the world right now
The land goes on forever
Not a soul in sight on this moonless night
Just stars and clouds and weather

A thousand miles away the time of day
Is harnessed by the city
People hurry by an empty sky in a world of nitty gritty

Somewhere in the world ...

On this planet so grand there's a master plan
Almost too big to imagine
Poets understand the science at hand
Spinning through this earthly pageant

Somewhere in the world ...
